Amendments to Income Tax Act 2007

- 4 Amendments to Income Tax Act 2007
- This Part amends the Income Tax Act 2007.
- 5B Section CC 15 replaced (New investment assets: change of use) 30
- Replace section CC 15 with:

CC 15 New investment assets: change of use

When this section applies

- (1) This section applies, for a person and a new investment asset, when—

(a)	the person has deducted an amount (the deducted DI 5 amount) for expenditure incurred in acquiring the asset under section DI 5 (New investment asset deduction) for an income year; and
(b)	the person changes their use of the asset in a subsequent income year; and	5
(c)	the change of use means the amount of the deduction the person would have been allowed under section DI 5 if the section were applied as if the income year were the income year in which the change of use occurs is less than the deducted DI 5 amount.
	When this section does not apply: less than 25% change in use	10
(2)	This section does not apply when the amount calculated using the following formula, expressed as a percentage, is less than 25%: $1 - (\text{new DI 5 deduction} \div \text{existing DI 5 deduction}).$
	Income
(3)	The person has an amount of income equal to the amount calculated using the following formula: $\text{existing DI 5 deduction} - \text{new DI 5 deduction}.$	15
	Items in formulas
(4)	In the formulas in subsections (2) and (3) ,—
(a)	new DI 5 deduction is the amount the person would have been allowed as a deduction under section DI 5 if the section were applied as if the income year referred to in the section were the income year in which the change of use occurs:	20
(b)	existing DI 5 deduction is,—
	(i) if subparagraph (ii) does not apply, the deducted DI 5 amount:	25
	(ii) if this section has previously been applied to the asset, the amount that was the new DI 5 deduction amount in the formula on the preceding application of this section.
	Relationship with subject matter
(5)	For an asset that is depreciable property, the amount of income under subsection (3) increases the asset’s adjusted tax value for the purposes of section EE 48(1)(a) (Effect of disposal or event).	30
	Example 1
	Thomas buys a new yacht for $100,000 that he begins using in the 2025–26 income year. He determines that the yacht will be used 90% of the time for business use and chooses to claim a new investment asset deduction on this basis. He therefore claims $18,000 as a new investment asset deduction, which is 90% of the full $20,000 deduction that was available to him under section DI 5. However, he reduces the cost or adjusted tax value used for determining depreciation of the yacht by $20,000 in accordance with section DI 6. In the 2026–27 income	35 year, he only uses the yacht 40% of the time for business. This is a change of use of 25% or more. Had Thomas taken the new investment asset deduction in the 2026–27 income year, he would only have been entitled to claim $8,000, being 40% of the full deduction available. Thomas must return income of $10,000 ($18,000 – $8,000) in the 2026–27 income year. The asset’s adjusted tax value is increased by $10,000 accordingly.
		40

Adam buys a commercial property, comprising land and a commercial building, for $15 million in the 2025–26 income year. The cost of the building is $10 million. He claims $2 million as a new investment asset deduction in that income year, and the cost or adjusted tax value of the building is reduced to $8 million. In the 2027–28 income year, Adam decides to rent out the top floor of the building as residential accommodation. This constitutes 25% of the floor space of the building. This is a change of use of 25% or more. Had Adam taken the new investment asset deduction in the 2027–28 income year, the building would only have been a new investment asset to the extent of the 75% of the building that was not a dwelling. Therefore, Adam would only have been able to claim a new investment asset deduction of $1.5 million, being 75% of the full deduction available. Adam must return income of $500,000 ($2 million – $1.5 million) in the 2027–28 income year. The adjusted tax value of the building is increased by $500,000 accordingly.

Other amounts reduced by amount of section DI 5 deduction

(1AB) In section DI 6(1), after “section DI 5 for”, insert “expenditure incurred in acquiring”.

15

(1) In section DI 6, replace the Examples with:

20

Example 1

ABC company purchases a new investment asset (Asset A) for $10,000 on 1 October 2025. Asset A is depreciable property and has a DV rate of 10%. Asset A is used for 6 months in the income year ending 31 March 2026. In the 2025–26 income year, ABC company is allowed the following deduction for the new investment asset under section DI 5:

25

$$0.2 \times $10,000 = $2,000.$$

Section DI 6(1)(a) ensures that the cost base for the asset for depreciation purposes is reduced by the amount of the deduction under section DI 5, that is, $10,000 – $2,000 = $8,000. Depreciation for the asset is then calculated for the 2025–26 income year as follows:

30

$$10\% \times 6/12 \times $8,000 = $400.$$

The total deduction for Asset A in the 2025–26 income year is $2,400. The adjusted tax value of the asset for the 2026–27 income year will be $7,600 ($8,000 – $400).

Example 2

35

ABC Company is in a consolidated group with DEF Company. At the end of the 2025–26 income year, ABC Company transfers Asset A to DEF Company. Section FM 15(7) applies to treat DEF Company as if it has claimed the $400 depreciation loss already claimed by ABC Company. Section DI 6 operates to transfer the $2,000 new investment asset deduction claimed by ABC Company to DEF Company for the purposes of the item new investment asset amount in section EE 48(1B) and (1C) and also operates to ensure the opening value of Asset A for DEF Company for depreciation purposes is $7,600. This means that if DEF Company were to dispose of Asset A at a later date for more than this amount, DEF Company would have depreciation recovery income.

40

- (2) In section DI 6, list of defined terms, insert “assessable income”, “consolidated group”, “depreciation recovery income”, “dispose”, and “income year”. 5

36 Section DN 5 amended (Foreign investment fund loss)
